TO Cortols & West of

TO Cortols & West of The weekly statement of averages of the Associated City Banks made public to-day explains why certain lenders of money have be-trayed during the last day of two a desire to put out their funds for long periods on good collateral. The average of the bank loans is over $4,000,000 less than a week ago, and as the banks have gained over $1,000,000 in lawful money and no special demands have been made upon them it stands to reason that the liquidation of loans has been entirely voluntary. The increase in the surplus re-serve brings that item up to a figure that would warrant the banks in increasing their accommodations were there any specia demand for money. As a matter of fact, lenders are now beginning to seek borrowers. and as there is practically no speculation on the Stock Exchange and very little in other markets, it would not be surprising if rates for both call and time money should settle to lower figures in the near future. As bearing upon the mercantile and commercial demand for money it should be noted that very small amounts of paper are offering and that buyers

rather than sellers are making the advances in the market for that class of security.
Unusual activity in Missouri, Kansas, and Persa stock this morning aroused fresh interest in the plans for reorganizing that company. There has been a growing demand for the bonds of the concern ever since the company made its proposition of reorganization through the committee of which President Olcott of the Central Trust Company is Chair man. The more recent advance in the market for them, as well as the activity in the stock today, has been due to progress that has been made toward harmonizing and securing the support of important interests that might contest and delay the work of reorganization. It is understood that that possi-bility has been removed, and that Mr. Russell Sage and the Messrs, Ames of Boston, who are the largest individual holders of the general mortgage bonds of the company, have decided to accept the terms offered by it, while Mr. Gould, whose interest as President of the Missouri Pacific has been to secure an adjustment of the open accounts between the two companies, has also been satisfied. As soon as these adjustments have been put in formal shape, as they doubtless will be in a day or two, all important opposition or possibility of opposition to the so-called Olcott plan of reorganation will have been removed. The two other plans that are before the public-one that has been put out in this country under the auspices of President King of the Union Trust Company, and the other formulated and fathered by some of the foreign bondholders, are entirely in the interest of the 7 $ cent. first consolidated mortgage bonds, and as the com-pany, with the assistance of the junior security holders, proposes to pay off that issue, the claim of those who represent that class of funds to reorganize the property cannot be serifunds to reorganize the property cannot be seriously considered by any one. Incidentally it may be remarked that the advocates of the company's plan of reorganization compute the subscription rights upon Missouri, Kansas and Texas stock to be worth in the neighborhood of 1½ % cent. The success of the Atchison plan of reorganization cought to stimulate progress toward rehabilitating the M. K. and T. Company. The time within which the holders of Atchison securities should deposit them subject to the plan expired to day. The total of the securities deposited is nearly $122,000,000, of which over $30,000,000 have been deposited by foreign holders. The company has decided that holders who have not deposited their securities may do so subject to such conditions as may be imposed by the Chairman of the Board. The reorganization of the Atchison Company is a financial phenomenon that has never been approached, not even in the reorganization of the Reading companies, and is not likely to be repeated. The volume of securities affected is much larger than that by the Reading reorganization, and the interests more numerous and diverse. Yet, within a period that is insignificant compared with the magnitude of the work, the reorganization has been accomplished without a single set-back or even formal dissension on the part of a security holder. The influence of such an event ought to be far reaching and potential in inspiring confidence in the present condition, and in the management of the railroad systems of the country.

One development this week has not as yet ously considered by any one. Incidentally it far reaching and potential in inspiring confidence in the present condition, and in the management of the railroad systems of the country.

One development this week has not as yet been generally estimated at its full value—namely, the annual election for directors of the New York and New England Railroad Company. There is no longer any good reason why Wall street should cherish the delusion that some remarkable and mysterious good fortune is liable at any moment to overtake the owners of that property. As has recently been noted in this column, Wall street owns the New England road, and graciously permits several of its shrewdest yet most unostentatious operators to manage it. Their real reason for wanting that power is not that they expect to be able to consolidate it or trade the control of it with its powerful competitors, but because they are large holders of Housatonic Hallroad stock, which they have tried and intend to make valuable if they can regardless of the effect upon the New York and New England road, the control of which, we repeat, is carried every day in the year on margins in stock brokers offices.

To-day's stock market amounted to nothing outside of an advance of nearly 2 per cent, in Kansas and Texas stock, and a sharp upward movement in Bugar Refineries stock that left it 3 per cent, higher than last night. The only change that has taken place outside of Wall street during the week has been a falling off in activity in almost all staple lines of trade. The unseasonable weather and the approach of the holidays are responsible for this condition. The strength of the stock market has morning on somparatively light transactions appeared to arouse hopes for a better market next week but it rests with those who cherish such expectations to fulfil them, as no one except themselves appears to take an active interest in the limited speculation.

The Stee Club Catches It from an Enemy of the Bemon Rum. DANIELSONVILLE, Dec. 14.—The Yale Glee Club came to this long-faced old Connecticut town the other night and gave a concert in the village hall. There were two or three dozen boys in the troups and they were out for fun. A good deal more give was dispensed after than during the concert. For several hours the boys raised Not. Danielsonville, which is the bluest of blue prohibition towns, hadn't seen so much fun before since the civil war. In Danielsonville resides John Quincy Adams Stone, who edits the Windham County Transcript. For forty or fifty years Mr. Stone has fought the demon Rum (a term he sets in fullface caps in his Transcript), and he imagined he was on top of the demon, as far as Daniel fought the demon Rull the Fall of the case in his Transcript, and he imagined he was on top of the demon, as far as Danielsonville is concerned, until the Yale Glee Club came to town. But within half an hour after the soncert had been given the Yale students had shown him what a lively demon rum still is. A lew days later the Transcript came outwith a withering article entitled "Hoodiums in Dreas Euits," and signed "Hayssed," which gave the glee club a dressing they won't soon forget. The article opened in this style:

Well, they're "college boys." you know, and we expect is in his ninescenth century. Nothing wrong for "boys will be boys." But let some poor davil de the identical disgraceful acts that a good number of the intellectual Yale "fresh" men of the glee club perpetrated Friday night and the townstolk would cry "Folice!" and be at court next day en masse te convict him of drunkenness and breach of the peace, and pat the Justice on the back for sending him to jail for their days on each count.

Then the writer became satirical, hinting that it was "oversight," probably, that "pure crystal water" was not "furnished to the young gentlemen (?) to quench their thirst, for their frequent exits during the concert made it apparent something of the sort was necessary." He added that perhaps "they might have gone out from force of habit, as is customary with some between the acts." Then he drove a shaft straight as the sort of education Yale University professes to teach:

A trid, the centre perhaps a law student, hugging a possible minister or decire on each side, elsculating "where can we get a drink, boys!" was one scene that could have been witnessed in the vestibute of the hall. They were good "smellers." After the concert a large delegation scented their way to one of our village drug stores, and relieved the proprietor of his large stock of champagne "for medicinal purposes," for a "marter." Them to the Central Boue in the proverse and period to the sort one of their procedure he street and the magnetic a time, you know, that's all.

"Hayaeed" wound up his criticism in a vein of bitter pleasantry:

Then we hayseeds kinder wondered, when we heard on it, if the inspiration of Homer's fliad and of Virgil was. "rum "pus and riot, and thought perhaps a chair for training in common decency might well be established at Vala. Such debaueher; and rowdyism is a disgrace to any educational institution, and no wonder one side of the guide beard on the road to gollegs in too often truthfully inscribed, "Go to the Devil, teo."

Engineer Harrington's Misfortune Like PORT JERVIS, Dec. 14.—There is a singular solveldance connected with the misfortune that overtook Engineer Thomas Harrington the other day, when he was suddenly stricken helpless by paralysis while attending to his duties in hauling a freight train over the Delaware division of the Erie Railroad. He was brought to his home here. He is a young man who had before enjoyed good health, and may

The misfortune occurred to Harrington very near the spot where he was running as firemat about two years ago, with the late Melvin L. Bose as engineer, when the latter received a death stroke by paralysis. One black and stormy night Engineer Rose, with Harrington as fireman, pulled out of the yard here with the fast Chicago express, westward bound and full of passengers. At Lackawaxen where water was taken, the fireman noted the engineer busy at his work and apparently in his usual rugged health. As the train approached Calileoon, twenty-five miles further on, Harrington, who was busy at his post keeping up steam, noticed that the train was running at extraordinary and rapidly increasing speed. A moment fater the train plunged by Calileoon station, where it should have stopped, without any warning whistle given and with a mad velocity that threatened its utter destruction. Harrington sorang forward into the cab, where he found the engineer lying on the floor unconscious. Harrington selzed the throttle lever and brought the runsway engine under control, and so ran it on to the next station. Few of the impurilled passengers have ever learned of their danger. Engineer Rose Gied without recovering entire consciousness, Fireman Harrington for his prompt and maritorious services on the occasion was promoted by Superintendent Starr to the post of engineer. as fireman, pulled out of the yard here with the

Fifty Feet Up with the Big Kite. HARTFORD, Dec. 14 .- Much has been said about the huge kite which five young men of Terryville have recently built and which they claim to be the largest kite in the world. On Wednesday evening the wind was blowing a gale in Terryville. It was determined to send sure over fifty feet more tail was added, so that it had over 160 feet of tail altogether. Several lighted lanterns were attached to the frame work, and the kite was otherwise decorated Arthur Bunnell undertook to hold the mammoth kite in position for the others to fly. When he supposed the right moment had come he let go, but as the kite arcse Mr. Bunnell left this mundane sphere with it. He had become entangled in some of its ropes. Luckly his extra weight caused the kite to careen so that it was blown into a large pine tree, where it remained long enough for Mr. Bunnell to extricate himself. He had escended about fifty feet, but was unhurt beyond a few sarstches. His clothes were almost ruined, however, and the lanterns on the kite were destroyed. The force exerted by the kite in the high wind was something tremendous. The united efforts of five men barely sufficed to hold it. Mr. Bunnell, it is rumored, has prepared his resignation to be submitted at the next meeting of the kits Club. moth kite in position for the others
